New Scientific Program for the next World Congress

ISUOG is pleased to unveil the new format program for the 20th World Congress on Ultrasound in Obstetrics and Gynecology. We listened to your feedback and have expanded the educational content of the program to offer over 15 specialist workshop activities throughout the five days in Prague

There are two to four parallel streams all day each day, which include live scans, new research presentations and poster discussion sessions. The new afternoon workshops include live demonstrations and state of the art updates from leading world experts.
