Saturday 25 September: Is AI the future of ultrasound in obstetrics and gynecology?

Thank you for registering to attend our next webinar in the free ISUOG Webinar Series. This is just a reminder that the webinar will take place this Saturday, 25 September at 12 Noon BST (UTC +1). Below are the joining instructions to access the live event.

Webinar: Is AI the future of ultrasound in obstetrics and gynecology?

Day: Saturday, 25 September 2021

Time: 12 Noon - 14:00 BST (UTC +1)

Log-in: Access the webinar via the live streaming page and enter the email address you registered with.

Technical considerations

We recommend you use Chrome or Firefox, not Internet Explorer. You will need to be connected to the internet via a Broadband / ADSL or other high speed connection and you will need to have headphones or speakers connected to hear the audio. We recommend you login 10 minutes before the start time to test your connection, you can play any video on the internet and if it plays smoothly then so will the webinar. You should see a holding slide and music prior to the webinar start time. If you are already logged in but experiencing problems viewing the webinar, refresh your browser and press play again.

Questions

You'll have the opportunity to submit your questions to lecturers throughout the webinar via the live platform, you will see a question feature to the side of the livestream. Your questions will be answered at the end of the webinar during the Q&A session. We very much welcome your questions and look forward to hearing from you.

Program

You can access the full program via our website.

Timing & Interaction

The program will broadcast on British Summer Time (BST). Unfortunately, we cannot respond to queries submitted to the live streaming website outside of webinar hours.

Lecture recordings

After the webinar has concluded, the lecture recordings will be available for review on demand by members on the ISUOG website via our Webinar recordings page. The lectures available from the webinar will be at the discretion of the lecturers.
